

#ShareKindness as a community

> NBCUniversal is challenging both ourselves and the American people to #ShareKindness to close out 2016. Every day we see individuals going above and beyond in their day to day lives to be kind to one another, and we want to celebrate this kindness together. We also want to make a concerted effort to show kindness in this moment as we approach the holiday season and step away from a divisive election season.

Here are some ways you can #ShareKindness in your life:

Simple:

- Start a can drive for people who need a little extra help this winter
- Organize a community clean-up of a local park or river
- Create a collaborative mural to allow community members to express themselves together
- Host a free dinner for the community near holiday season (mainly for churches)
- Sign up to serve at a soup kitchen as a group
- Hold a book drive for prisoners and nursing homes

Go the extra mile:

- Create a little free library (Take a Book, Leave a Book)
- Pick a local charity and raise money for it as a community, give the contribution as a holiday present
- Make sure everyone in your community has appropriate recycling bins - if not, help get them some from the local government
- Sponsor a child overseas
- Hold a carwash to raise money for a local charity
- Take a day to plant new trees in your neighborhood

Doing something kind for someone? Give them a Kindness Card to encourage them to pass it on. Together we're creating a season of kindness, and we want it to spread far and wide!
